OF INTEREST TO WOMEN

A tested paste for cleaning silver is made as follows: Dissolve one ounce of borax in one-half pint boiling water; when the liquid is cold pour it over four ounces precipitated chalk and beat until smooth. Add one gill of alcohol and bottle. Shake well before using.

The latest silver mesh bags have the links woven or welded together in different patterns, so that they look almost like heavy silver thread lace.

Spanish toast: To one can of tomatoes (or its equivalent of the fresh vegetable) add one onion sliced, one tablespoonful of chopped parsley, one large green pepper, shredded, and pepper and salt to taste. Cook together until very thick and serve on buttered toast. This is a delicious luncheon dish.

The latest Paris "eri" is for "big hats and shoulder draperies."

The kimono sleeve is seen on many of the evening wraps and auto coats. Black patent leather belts are worn with foulard and all-dark silk dresses.

Some new scarfs have borders of very flat applique flowers rather than printed borders or those of satin.

The new guimpes, yokes and other accessories are made to build up low gowns, and are of white French tulle, which is exceedingly thick, yet durable. It is usually made double and is untrimmed.

Some of the fancy, closely woven white crocheted wools made into bands and cockades or rosettes for hat trimming are stunning. Like everything else, there is an enormous difference in quality and makeup of this popular new ornamentation.

We are told that reversible faille satin is one of the newest and richest members of its family. As its name implies, it is faille on one side and satin on the other, but the cord of the faille showing faintly through the satin finish makes it look quite different from the more familiar satin fabrics.

Hot sea salt baths are very restful for feet that are tired and swollen from long standing. The following dissolved in the bath water will do much to help them: Alum, one ounce; rock salt, two ounces; borax, three ounces.

Ice cream served in the forms of little sitting Japanese ladies makes an attractive looking dessert. Their dresses can be gay in pink and green, while chocolate does for the hair. Tiny paper parasols and fans add to their attractiveness.

It is well to know how to make a good glue at home. I quote a recipe given me: Put into a bottle one ounce of Russian isinglass (broken in small bits) and two ounces of acetic acid; cork the bottle and place in a pan of warm water. In a few hours the glue will be ready to use; coat the cork with vaselline.

The vogue for satin is carried out in some of the diagonal striped suits for the winter by having the coat edges all piped with a wide piping of the satin matching the dark stripe or of black.

Black and white striped ribbon, the black of velvet and the white of taffeta, is very smart-looking made up for hat bows or for the entire draping of the crown which is so much in fashion this summer.

There has been and still is quite a rage for the Panama bags in large or small sizes according to what use they are put. The former make attractive crocheting or fancy work bags, and the latter are smart for handkerchiefs.

Scissors do so much better work than knives in many cases that no kitchen should be without its special pair. They are infinitely better for removing the centers of grape fruit, a great help in shaping sandwiches, cutting up rhubarb or asparagus, and so indefinitely.

There isn't much of an excuse for anybody's looking careless and "stopy" at the breakfast table since the advent of the slip-on dress. It is as simple to put on as a negligee, and yet you can be dressed well enough to go on the street if necessary.

CHASE TO PLAY SECOND.

Hal Chase, the Californian, known wherever baseball is played as the greatest first baseman the game has ever known, intends to switch from his favorite position and try his luck at second base next year. The reason for Chase's action is that Jack Knight, a valuable hitter, can play only one position, first base, and Chase figures that he can make good at second and thus strengthen the Yanks.
